Essentially, you may have no ability to use the language beyond possibly a few isolated words. Or, initially you are an Intermittent User with whom no real communication is possible except for the most basic information using isolated words or short formulae in familiar situations and to meet immediate needs. You are showing great difficulty understanding spoken and written English.

By the time you finish the course, you however, become an Extremely Limited User who conveys and understands only general meaning in very familiar situations though frequent breakdowns in communication do occur.
